

Québec Education Program Progression of Learning

English Language Arts Elementary Cycle Three 2021-2022 School Year

Learning to Be Prioritized for the 2021-2022 School Year in the Context of the Pandemic

This document is identical to the one produced for the 2020-2021 school year.

Table of Contents

Introduction	3
Conventions of Written and Media Language	4
Language-Learning Processes	6
Text Types, Structures and Features	9
Self-Expressive Text Types	10
Narrative and Literacy Text Types	12
Information-Based Text Types	15

Reproduction rights

Educational institutions are authorized to reproduce this document in whole or in part. If copies are sold, the price must not exceed the cost of reproduction. This document is available at: [ www.mels.gouv.qc.ca/progression/index_en.asp ]

Introduction

This document is a complementary to the English Language Arts (ELA) program. It neither replaces nor rewrites the current elementary ELA program of study. The focus of the document is on providing more information to teachers about some of the requirements found in the content of the ELA program and their connection to the progressive development of literacy from the beginning to the end of elementary school. Teachers are encouraged to include this document in their planning for teaching. As is the case with the ELA program, this program supplement also plays an important role in determining short- and long-term pedagogical strategies and goals.

The ELA program is first and foremost a literacy program in which speaking, listening, viewing, writing and production of media texts are learned in an integrated fashion. This integration lies at the core of the development of critical literacy. Similarly, the three sections that follow assume a connection between the development of essential knowledge about language and texts, and the language-learning processes that mobilize this knowledge, giving it context, purpose and function.

The first section of the document describes the conventions of written and media language that represent the building blocks on which language as a system is constructed. Students learn how these building blocks work through active engagement with language in situations where they have the opportunity to both enjoy spoken, written and media texts, and create them.

The students' knowledge about how language conventions influence the ways in which we communicate is learned in action, through the language-learning processes that comprise the second section of the document. These processes are vital insofar as they provide students with essential knowledge that will enable lifelong literacy and learning. Knowledge about the context in which a text is written or produced, the meaning(s)/message(s) it conveys and the audience to whom it is directed provide the foundation for the growth of critical and fluent speakers, listeners, readers, writers and producers. This knowledge is central to the response, writing and production processes described here.

We communicate with one another through the creation of different text types, all of which have explicit and important purposes in shaping our life in society. The third section of the document looks at a number of essential social functions that texts play in the world in the form of required texts, together with the structures and features of these required text types. Students develop their knowledge of how texts work as they interpret, write and produce texts. In this sense, the essential knowledge described in the section on text types, structures and features develops in tandem with the processes students' use to construct meaning(s) and what they are learning about the conventions of written and media language.

All of the existing content in the ELA program plays a key role in the development of literacy, whether or not it reappears in the program supplement. For example, given the amount of information on the conventions and development of spoken language that is already contained in the ELA program, including it in this document would have resulted in nothing more than repetition. In other words, it is anticipated that teachers will integrate the existing program content with the additional information provided in this document as they plan for teaching.

Conventions of Written and Media Language

Print and images are read and produced differently. The following chart specifies the knowledge students are expected to develop about these conventions throughout their elementary education. However, it is understood that students are not expected to locate or identify parts of speech in a discrete fashion, such as in an objective test. Rather, it is anticipated that students learn these conventions in increasingly more complex contexts and in relation to more complex texts.

$\rightarrow$	Student constructs knowledge with teacher guidance.
*	Student applies knowledge by the end of the school year.		E	lem	enta	ry
	Student reinvests knowledge.	Cv	cle	Cv	cle	Су	cle
			ne		WO		ree
	Understanding the Conventions of Written Language	1	2	3	4	5	6
	student understands and applies conventions of written language to express thoughts, idea ific purpose and audience, in own reading and writing:	s and	d info	orma	tion	for a Grammar (sentence structure and syntax)
	a. Writes sentences in an order that supports a main idea or story	$\rightarrow$	*
	b. (Uses linguistic structures and features to express thoughts, ideas and information for audience:)	a sp	ecifi	c pu	rpos	e an	d
	i. In simple sentences by using subject, verb, modifier	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul><li>ii. In syntactic structures that carry meaning, (e.g. the structure of a question, an apology, a request)</li></ul>	$\rightarrow$	*
	iii. In compound sentences by using prepositions, conjunctions, interjections	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	iv. In simple and compound sentences (i.e. varies types of sentences and uses transitional phrases)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
2.	Usage Conventions (agreement and word choice)
	a. Uses vocabulary and/or terminology related to the type of writing	$\rightarrow$	*
	b. Uses consistent verb tenses and correct pronoun references	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Selects words that convey the intended meaning and create a picture in the reader's mind</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
	<ul> <li>d. Uses literal and figurative language in a variety of ways (e.g. imitating, creating new words, rhyming)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
3.	Mechanics (spelling, capitalization and punctuation)
	a. Capitalization
	i. Applies capitalization rules: the first word in a sentence, proper nouns	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	b. (Punctuation)
	i. Applies end punctuation rules: period, question mark, exclamation point	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	ii. Applies rules for commas: items in a series, greetings	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	iii. Uses apostrophes to punctuate contractions and singular possessive	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	iv. Uses quotation marks to punctuate dialogue	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	&gt;	*
	c. Spelling
	<ul> <li>Uses conventions of writing: spacing between words and lines, consistent left-right and up-down orientation</li> </ul>	*
	<ul><li>ii. Uses invented spelling by choosing letters on the basis of sound for unknown or challenging words, e.g. kaj (cage) or hows (house)</li></ul>	$\rightarrow$	*

iii. In	dicates words that are misspelled	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
re	oplies common spelling patterns/generalizations including: word families, egular plurals, prefixes, suffixes, irregular plurals, words ending in –y, doubling hal consonant	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	ses resources to correct own spelling (e.g. environmental print, word lists, ctionaries, peers, spell check)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
B. Producing	and Interpreting Media Texts	1	2	3	4	5	6 pecific context/sit		ing(s	s)/me	essa •	ge(s)	) in a	) ——
1. Images (in ph	otographs, drawings and illustrations):
	nd interprets the visual element of color (e.g. dark reds and blacks in a picture show anger or fear)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
h Hees a	nd interprets the visual element of perspective in illustrations or drawings (e.g.
	ote a viewpoint, as in a faded, distant image that evokes a memory)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
to conn				$\rightarrow$	<ul><li>→</li><li>→</li></ul>	→	*
to conn c. Uses a medium	ote a viewpoint, as in a faded, distant image that evokes a memory) nd interprets camera techniques, such as camera distance (e.g. long and			<ul><li>→</li><li>→</li></ul>	<ul><li>→</li><li>→</li></ul>	<ul><li>→</li><li>→</li><li>→</li></ul>	* *

Language-Learning Processes

Knowledge about the processes used to read, interpret, write and produce written and media texts is central to the development of critical literacy. The processes detailed in the following chart are: response process, writing process and production process (media texts). It is anticipated that these different processes develop throughout elementary school as students work with increasingly complex purposes, texts and audiences. Any process is by definition nonlinear in its development, as well as context- and text-dependent in its application, making it vital that students' work consistently with these language-learning processes throughout each cycle of elementary school.

a. Constructs a personal response to the text (i.e. constructs meaning)  b. Uses details and evidence in the text to infer meaning(s)  c. Integrates new information with what is already known to construct meaning  d. Uses evidence to distinguish between own thinking, values and beliefs and those presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character)  e. Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses information, ideas and new insights with peers)  f. Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience;  g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mod  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary)  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  in a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.  1. Prewriting  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text)   which is a proper of the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Writes to a specific audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and   concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g meaning(s)  c. Integrates new information with what is already known to construct meaning  d. Uses evidence to distinguish between own thinking, values and beliefs and those presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character)  e. Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses) information, ideas and new insights with peers)  f. Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to) appeal to a specific or target audience  g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mind.  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader'audience  B. Writing Process  in a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text  1. Prewriting  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Diratting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific diratillar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax o		a.	Constructs a personal response to the text (i.e. constructs meaning)	$\rightarrow$	*
d. Uses evidence to distinguish between own thinking, values and beliefs and those presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character) e. Uses other reader's interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses) (information, ideas and new insights with peers) f. Understands that all syboten, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience) g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mind. i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls) ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose) iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be vi. (Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  B. Writing Process 1 2 3 4 5 6 In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.  1. (Prewriting)  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate) b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), strategies author used to craft the text)  2. (Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. (Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional d		b.		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
e. Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses)  (Information, ideas and new insights with peers)  f. Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience  g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in (inhind)  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Considers of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Considers of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Considers of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Considers of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), ⇒ → → → ★  vi. Considers of text t		C.	Integrates new information with what is already known to construct meaning	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
e. Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses) information, ideas and new insights with peers)  f. (Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience)  g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mind.  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text)   c. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and oncorems  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)		d.		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
f. Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience] g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mind.  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)			Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
g. Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in mind?  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  iii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iiii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary)  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. (Draffing, i.e. initial version(s) of texts)  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. (Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g., the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)			Understands that all spoken, written and media texts are constructed by people to	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)		g.	Understands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with	n spe	ecific	pur	pose	s in (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. (Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. (Prewriting)  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. (Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts)  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. (Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different))  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)									-4
iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, fiyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)			(e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its	→	→	→ →	→ →	→ →	*
iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a) postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)						→	→	→	+
v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. [dentifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience]  B. [Writing Process]  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.]  1. [Prewriting:]  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. [Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text), strategies author used to craft the text)  2. [Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts]  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. [Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)
vi. (Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6  In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)			iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	7	*
B. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5 6 In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text.  1. (Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. (Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts)  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)						$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
In a given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text:  1. Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)						$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	&gt;	*
<ul> <li>1. Prewriting: <ul> <li>a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)</li> <li>b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience</li> <li>c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)</li> </ul> </li> <li>2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts <ul> <li>a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher</li> <li>b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns</li> <li>c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)</li> <li>d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)</li> <li>e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)</li> </ul> </li> </ul>	В.	Writ	ing Process	1	2	3	4	5	6
a. Constructs a personal response to the text (i.e. constructs meaning)  b. Uses details and evidence in the text to infer meaning(s)  c. Integrates new information with what is already known to construct meaning  d. Uses evidence to distinguish between own thinking, values and beliefs and those presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character)  e. Uses other readers' interpretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses) information, ideas and new insights with peers)  f. Understands that lat sooken, written and media texts are constructed by people to appeal to a specific or target audience?  g. Understands that lates must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes mind.  i. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a megazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writer/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary  v. Considers whofwhat has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience  Writing Process  1 2 3 4  Invent context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text)  Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text).  The process of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text).  The provides a specific familiar audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g., letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose an <ul> <li>a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)</li> <li>b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience</li> <li>c. (Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)</li> <li>2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts</li> <li>a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher</li> <li>b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns</li> <li>c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)</li> <li>d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)</li> <li>e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)</li> </ul>	nao	given d	context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing proces	s to	write	a te	ext:
b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)				s to	write	a te	ext:
c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)		Prew	riting:	s to	write	a te	ext:
strategies author used to craft the text)  2. Drafting, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)		Prew	riting:  Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to			e a te	ext:
<ul> <li>a. Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher</li> <li>b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns</li> <li>c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)</li> <li>d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)</li> <li>e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)</li> </ul>		Prew a. b.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience	→			ext:
b. Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)		Prew a. b.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text,	→			ext:	-	*
concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)	1.	Prew a. b. c.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)	→			ext:	→	*
<ul> <li>d. Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a) postcard, flyer and letter are different)</li> <li>e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)</li> </ul>	1.	b. c.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			→	→	* postcard, flyer and letter are different)  e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)	1.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			→	→	•
e. Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)	1.	Prew a. b. c.  Drafti a. b.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			→ ★	→	*
3. Revision, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning	1.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a)	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			→ * * →	→	*
b. Uses details and evidence in the text to infer meaning(s)  c. Integrates new information with what is already known to construct meaning  d. Uses evidence to distinguish between own thinking, values and beliefs and those presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character)  presented in the text (e.g. figures out what values are important to a character)  c. Uses other readers' intepretations to clarify and extend own ideas (e.g. discusses)  f. (Inderstands that all spoken, written and media lexts are constructed by people to appeat to a specific or target audience)  g. (Inderstands that texts must be questioned, since they are constructed by people with specific purposes in written and in pink is probably targeting girls)  ii. Determines the specific or target audience by selecting details from the text (e.g. a magazine ad all in pink is probably targeting girls)  iii. Identifies and locates information about who wrote the text (i.e. its writter/producer) and why (i.e. the purpose)  iii. Examines how the message attracts and holds the reader's/viewer's attention  iv. Distinguishes fact from opinion, and real from imaginary)  v. Considers who/what has been left out of the text and why this might be  vi. Identifies some of the ways that the author/producer has tried to influence the reader/audience)  v. Writing Process  1 2 3 4 5  given context or situation, the student understands how to apply stages of the writing process to write a text)  Prewriting:  a. Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  b. Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  c. Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text).  prefing, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  a. Writes to a specific admiliar audience of family, friends and teacher  b. Writing to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  c. Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narra		*
a. Rereads for clarity  → → ★	2.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			★ ★ →	→	*
b. Adds descriptive words and sufficient details  → → → ★	2.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a) postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)  sion, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$			★ ★ → →	→	*
c. Sequences information, events $ ightarrow  ightarro$	2.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d. Revis	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)  sion, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning  Rereads for clarity	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$	*		★ ★ → →	→ ★	*
d. Deletes unnecessary details and/or information  → → → →	2.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d. Revis a. b.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)  sion, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning  Rereads for clarity  Adds descriptive words and sufficient details	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$	*		★ ★ → →	→ ★ ★	*
4. Editing, i.e. rearranging/re-ordering what has already been written and proofreading	2.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d. e. Revis a. b.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text)  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)  sion, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning  Rereads for clarity  Adds descriptive words and sufficient details  Sequences information, events	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$	*		★ ★ → → → →	→ ★ ★	*
	3.	Prew a. b. c. Drafti a. b. c. d. e. Revis a. b. c. d.	Understands the purpose for the writing (e.g., to entertain, to inform, to communicate)  Selects topic and text type based on purpose and audience  Examines models of text type through immersion into the text (e.g. features of text, strategies author used to craft the text))  ng, i.e. initial version(s) of texts  Writes to a specific familiar audience of family, friends and teacher  Writes to a specific wider audience on self-selected and assigned topics, issues and concerns  Uses a structure that fits the type of writing (e.g. letter format, narrative)  Adjusts writing decisions to purpose and audience (e.g. the register and syntax of a) postcard, flyer and letter are different)  Connects needs and expectations of a specific audience to writing decisions (e.g. provides additional details or information, sequences events or information to enhance reader's comprehension)  sion, i.e. making changes to content of text and/or message and/or meaning  Rereads for clarity  Adds descriptive words and sufficient details  Sequences information, events  Deletes unnecessary details and/or information	$\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$ $\rightarrow$	*		★ ★ → → →	→ ★ ★	*

	b.	Checks for conventions of grammar			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	C.	Rearranges sentences and paragraphs for clarity and effect			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	-&gt;	*
5.	Publ	ishing
	a.	Selects personally significant pieces of writing to publish	$\rightarrow$	*
	b.	Selects layout and highlights relevant structures and features to enhance the presentation	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	C.	Feedback: seeks and provides throughout all stages of the writing process	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
C.	Pro	duction Process (Media)	1	2	3	4	5	6
	given uce a	context or situation, the student, working within a team, applies all stages of the media text:	prod	ducti	on p	roce	ss to	) roduction
	a.	Understands the purpose for the production (e.g. to sell something, to influence the way people think, to give information, to entertain)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	b.	Selects text type depending on purpose, audience and context	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	C.	Examines models of text type to be produced through immersion into the type (e.g. unique features of a text, target audience, how message/meaning is communicated)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	d.	Drafts storyboard (i.e. a plan or representation of the project)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	e.	Identifies and gathers material, resources, expertise for the production			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	f.	Determines criteria for production of a familiar text type (e.g. features of an effective poster or PSA, target audience)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
2.	Prod	uction
	a.	Uses prior knowledge of media text type from experiences with similar texts, immersion into text	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	b.	Uses images and/or print and/or sound to produce a familiar media text	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	C.	Uses storyboard and/or other planning resources to guide production of the text	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	d.	Uses appropriate technology resources for the specific production as needed (e.g. downloading digital images for a multimedia picture book, using a still or video camera, adding visual effects and/or animation to a comic strip)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
3.	Post	production
	a.	Reviews images, records narration, adds titles or text, adds transitions, depending on the production and its message/meaning			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	b.	Edits, depending on technology resources			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	C.	Considers feedback from peers and others			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*
	d.	Presents text to intended audience	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	e.	Evaluates the effectiveness of the text given audience and purpose		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*

Text Types, Structures and Features

The Elementary English Language Arts (ELA) program focuses on the broad categories of self-expressive, narrative, literary, popular and information-based text types. The distinction between literary and narrative is made to accommodate students' own writing and media production, both of which fall into the latter category.

The following charts indicate the knowledge about required self-expressive, narrative-literary and information-based text types that students are expected to develop by the last year of elementary school. This knowledge includes required texts in each broad category, such as illustrated picture books in the narrative-literary category, as well as an understanding of the structures and features found in specific text types. Students use this knowledge to construct meaning while listening to, reading, writing, viewing and/or producing texts. The expectation here is that students learn about different texts by examining their specific structures and features, rather than being asked to identify or define terms in an isolated fashion.

In each of the three charts that follow, required texts are listed (e.g. A-1) followed by their structures and features, (e.g. A-2). It should be noted that the popular text types referred to in the ELA program have been included in the self-expressive, narrative-literary and information-based text type categories. As well, the required texts have been categorized according to their most common social purpose or function. For example, although the journal appears in self-expressive text types, journals may also include narrative and information. However, the main social purpose of a journal is to record one's memories, experiences, hopes, ideas and reflections, rendering it a perfect example of a self-expressive text type.

- Self-Expressive Text Types
- Narrative and Literary Text Types
- Information-Based Text Types

Text Types, Structures and Features

Self-Expressive Text Types

Self-expressive texts allow us to participate in the life of family, friends and community. The complexity of a self-expressive text is achieved through the way its structures and features interact to create meaning(s). For this reason, the progression that students demonstrate in working with knowledge about how self-expressive texts are constructed is directly related to the increasing sophistication of concepts, themes and social knowledge in the texts that they interpret, write and produce.

In the Elementary English Language Arts program, self-expressive texts fall into the following categories:

- Texts that reinforce and maintain relationships with others
- Reflective texts that help us to reflect on, think and wonder about life, current events and personal experiences, as well as to reflect on our actions and evaluate what we learn.

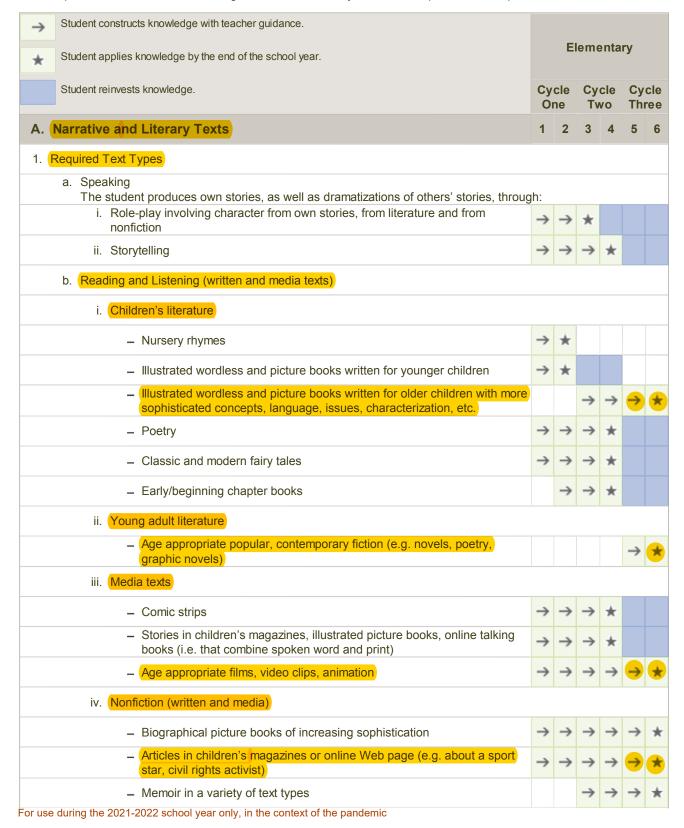

1. Required Text Types
a. Speaking
i. (Texts that focus on reflecting and evaluating own learning, in reading/ writing/ production conferences, including sharing of Integrated Portfolio)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
b. Writing and Media Production
i. Journals	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
ii. (Multimedia journals)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ol> <li>Structures and Features         The student understands the purpose of the following structures and features and uses this reading and writing/producing texts.     </li> </ol>	s kno	owle	dge	whe	n )
a. Writing and Media Production
i. Self-expressive language to relate ideas, feelings, experience	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ul> <li>ii. Word choice to indicate a specific time frame (e.g. past tense to indicate a memory)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iii. Synthesis of ideas and feelings to focus on what is most important	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→	*

Text Types, Structures and Features

Narrative and Literary Text Types

Narrative texts are one of the oldest forms for recording and making sense of human experience, as well as articulating the world of the imagination.

The complexity of a narrative or literary text is achieved through the way its structures and features interact to create meaning(s), concepts, the passage of time and characters. For this reason, the progression that students demonstrate in working with knowledge about how narrative-literary texts are constructed is directly related to the increasing sophistication of concepts, themes and social knowledge in the texts that they listen to, interpret, write and produce.

c. Writi	ing and Media Production
i.	Stories based on ideas, experiences and events	$\rightarrow$	*
ii.	Illustrated narrative in comic strip using own drawings, images or photos	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iii.	Illustrated picture books using drawings and/or images and/or photos	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv.	Photo stories (e.g. sequencing photos and/or images to create a scene from a story)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
The stude	s and Features) ont understands the purpose of the following structures and features and uses this when reading, listening to and producing spoken and written texts.	s kno	owled	dge 1	to co	nstr	uct
a. Społ	ken and Written Texts
i.	Plot structures and features
	<ul> <li>Predictable story patterns</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Sequence of events</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Incidents (e.g. actions that take place in the story usually related to the main conflict)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Foreshadowing, i.e. the use of hints or clues to suggest what will happen later in the story (Reading only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Flashback (Reading only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	- Episodes, e.g. typically the subject of a chapter (Reading only)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Conflict, i.e. central problem around which a story is typically organized.</li> <li>Examples would include man against man, man against nature, issues involving what is right or wrong, etc.</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Resolution of conflict</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Theme, i.e. the central or underlying meaning or dominant idea(s) that structures a narrative. It should be noted, however, that theme is not a textual structure that every reader interprets in exactly the same way.</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
ii.	Characterization
	Main character in a story	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Stock and/or flat characters, i.e. characters with only one or two qualities or traits. Stereotypes, such as the mean stepmother, are examples of flat characters.</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Archetypes, e.g. the hero/heroine archetype, the villain, forces of good and evil such as superheroes (Reading only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
iii.	Setting
	<ul> <li>The physical landscape and social context in which the action of story occurs, i.e. its time and place</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Descriptive details that construct the world of the story (e.g. the forest in Max's room allows the reader to move into the story)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv.	Other features of narrative
	<ul> <li>Literary conventions (e.g. "Once upon a time" in a fairy tale, moral in a fable)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	- Humor, suspense, repetition	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Dialogue, e.g. to reveal character</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	<ul> <li>Point of view, i.e. narrative voice in first or third person</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	&gt;	*
	<ul> <li>Attitude of author to the material, i.e. writer's position (Reading only)</li> </ul>					$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$

<ul> <li>Media texts</li> <li>All of the structures and features of written narrative (above) also apply to narratives</li> </ul>	in th	e me	edia	In a	dditid	on the student understands the purpose of the following structures and features and use construct meaning when viewing and producing media texts.						)11
i. Plot structure and features
<ul> <li>Use of images (photos or drawings) to extend the story and to provide story details</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ul> <li>Use of music and/or sound to create suspense, mood, humor, conflict, etc. (Viewing only)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Use of colour to suggest emotion, to create mood, etc.</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Use of different scenes or episodes to move the story forward (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
ii. Characterization
<ul> <li>Surface appearance of a character (e.g. clothing, physical attributes)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ul> <li>Use of details to convey an imaginary character (e.g. wings, exaggerated or invented facial features)</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ul> <li>Use of explanation marks and speech bubbles to show thought and dialogue, e.g. in comic books or some animation films</li> </ul>	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
<ul> <li>Use of body language and gesture to convey character traits, including emotions (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Use of music and/or sound to signal or stress some aspect of character,</li> <li>e.g. music to signal the reappearance of a character such as Tinkerbell or Captain Hook in Peter Pan (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Use of camera angle (e.g. use of low angle to make someone look stronger or like a bully, high angle to make someone look weaker or vulnerable)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Stereotypes of individuals and groups (e.g. perceptions about gender in comics and picture books) (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
iii. Setting
<ul> <li>Repetition of symbols, or motifs, to create mood, suspense, sense of continuity (e.g. scenes of the ocean in a story that takes place in Cape Breton) (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Use of light and dark (e.g. to create a sense of foreboding, to change time frame) (Viewing only)</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
<ul> <li>Clothing and other details that create a sense of time and location</li> </ul>			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$

Text Types, Structures and Features

Information-Based Text Types

The vast majority of reading and writing done outside of school is information-based. These are the texts that we read in order to research, learn and gain information on a range of events, issues and topics.

The complexity of an information-based text is achieved through the way its structures and features interact to create meaning(s)/message(s). For this reason, the progression that students demonstrate in working with knowledge about how information-based texts are constructed is directly related to the increasing sophistication of concepts, themes and social knowledge in the texts that they interpret, write and produce.

In the Elementary English Language Arts program, information-based texts fall into the following categories:

- Planning texts are used to plan and organize our thoughts, ideas and actions, and to help us monitor our own learning
- Explanatory texts explain natural or social phenomena or how something works. They answer the questions "why" or "how."
- Descriptive reports describe the way things are or were, usually focusing on events, information or both.
- Persuasive texts try to move people to act or behave in a certain way, including selling or promoting a product.

1. Required	Text Types
a. Spe	eaking eaking
	. Directions and instructions (e.g. for a game)	$\rightarrow$	*
i	. Explanation of a procedure or how something works	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
ii	Explanation of reasons for a decision		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*	1
b. Rea	ading, Listening, Writing and Media Production
	. Texts that explain a process/procedure (e.g. rules, recipes, directions)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
i	. Illustrated and multimedia how-to books	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
ii	. Texts that explain how or why something happens using a narrative structure (e.g. picture books such as The Magic School Bus , magazine articles)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv	. Posters that explain		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
V	Web sites (Reading and Viewing only)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	&gt;
	s and Features
	ent understands the purpose of the following structures and features and uses this , reading, writing and producing texts.	s kno	owle	dge v	whei	1 )
	oken, Written and Media texts
	. A title and a series of logical steps, in images and/or print, explaining how or why something occurs	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
i	Headings, captions or labels to focus readers' attention on what is most important		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
ii	<ul> <li>Sequential/chronological organization of information to explain how and/or why something is done in the way it is</li> </ul>		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv	. Images (photo or drawing) and text features that provide additional information or contribute to the organization of information		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
٧	Navigational aids such as table of contents or alphabetical listing in longer texts, index, headings and page numbers		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→
٧	. Bibliography (if needed)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
Descrip	otive Reports	1	2	3	4	5
. Required	Text Types				ļ
a. Spe
	e student produces:  . spoken reports based on family, community or school experiences (e.g. field	$\rightarrow$	*
i	trips, favourite toys, special holidays)  spoken reports that describe the way things are or were (e.g. an observed	_	_
	event such as a solar eclipse, the stages of an experiment and what was observed, a report on a topic or issue of personal interest, such as the extinction of dinosaurs)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
b Re	ading, Viewing and Listening (spoken, written and media texts)
	Nonfiction that describes and reports details about a topic (e.g. simple science trade books written for children)	$\rightarrow$	*
i	. Articles in children's magazines that report (e.g. on a topic, event)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	Letters that describe or report (e.g. a character's letter that describes an experience or event)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv	Local and national newspaper articles that are appropriate and accessible to children		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
٧	Local and national radio and television news reports that are appropriate and accessible to children			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$
V	Web pages, blogs and Internet sites appropriate and accessible to children (e.g., short video clips)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	→
	ting and Media Production

i.	Reports on personal experiences in family, classroom, or school (e.g. an anecdotal report)	$\rightarrow$	*
ii.	Reports on topics/subjects of personal interest (e.g. short nonfiction texts, magazine articles)	$\rightarrow$	*
iii.	Reports about their classroom or local community (e.g. in a class or school newspaper, on a class Web site or in a class blog)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
2. Structures	and Features nt understands the purpose of the following structures and features and uses this	s kno	owled	dge v	wher	1
reading, w	riting and producing descriptive reports.
a. Writt	ten texts
i.	Title to indicate contents	$\rightarrow$	*
ii.	General statement about the topic in opening paragraph (e.g. Dogs are mammals)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iii.	Logical sequencing of details, facts, opinions based on events and/or information		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv.	Subheadings and paragraphs to group and/or categorize information		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
V.	Use of comparison and contrast		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	Visuals and/or graphic organizers to extend content of written text (e.g. pictures, labels, diagrams)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
vii.	Summary of events, observations, impressions to highlight what is most important			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
viii.	Specific features of different formats depending on topics and purposes (i.e. a) science report has different features than a news article describing the school			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	&gt;	*
h Med	(community) ia Texts
	Headline or title to indicate contents		$\rightarrow$	4
	Images/ visuals to contribute to description of events, details, or impressions		_	_
	(e.g. in a nonfiction article on plant-eating dinosaurs, a brochure describing the school community, a blog about puppy mills)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iii.	(Images/ visuals to classify and sequence details, recounts, events and information (e.g. in a photo essay, in a local news story, on a website)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
D. Persuas	ive Texts	1	2	3	4	5	6
1. Required	Text Types
a. Spea The	aking student produces spoken persuasive texts, specifically:
i.	Texts that seek to persuade peers to change their habits and/or actions and/or behaviours (e.g. appeals concerning the impact of plastic bottles on the environment)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
The	ding and Listening (written and media texts) student reads/views persuasive texts that encourage people to purchase someth rity or adopt a particular viewpoint, specifically:	ing,	parta	ake i	nas	speci	ial
i.	Popular signs and symbols, such as logos of popular food chains, clothing	$\rightarrow$	*
ii.	Packaging for popular products aimed at children (e.g. cereal boxes, toys, clothing)	$\rightarrow$	*
iii.	Promotional posters or flyers		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
iv.	TV commercials aimed at children		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
V.	Magazine and newspaper advertisements (i.e. in children's magazines)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
vi.	TV and/or movie reviews aimed at children (e.g. a movie trailer for a popular film or a TV show)			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
vii.	Public Service Ads and posters created for children				$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	Opinion pieces, print or online, written for children on topics/issues of interest

C.	Writing and Media Production The student writes/produces persuasive texts that promote a product, event or servic	e air	ned	at ch	ildre	n, specifically:  i. Promotional posters or flyers (e.g. for a special event at school or to advertise a favorite game)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	ii. Packaging (e.g. for a new toy, cereal box, video game)	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	iii. Ads (e.g. for a children's magazine, for a commercial)		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	*
	iv. TV and/or movie reviews for peers or younger children			$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	7
The	ures and Features tudent understands the purpose of the following structures and features and uses thing ng/message when reading, viewing, writing and producing texts.	s kno	owle	dge	to co	nstr	uc
a.	Written and Media Texts
	<ul> <li>Use of persuasive images, words or phrases to promote a product and/or some aspect of consumerism (e.g. on product packaging, in magazine ads, on a Web site for a popular toy such as Barbie, in a popular logo)</li> </ul>		$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	7
	ii. Strategic placement of images (photo or drawing) to attract the attention of reader/viewer (e.g. as in a poster, in a magazine ad)				$\rightarrow$	$\rightarrow$	7
	iii. Music/sound to promote a product and/or appeal to the viewer to take action (e.g. in a TV commercial) (Viewing only)					$\rightarrow$	,